HEI Admissions – Progression into Higher Education

This guide has been produced for Higher Education Institutes to provide information on the new Level 3 City & Guilds Technical Qualifications in Hair and Beauty.

These new industry recognised qualifications were co-created and supported by employers to bridge the gap between education and employment. City & Guilds worked with a number of organisations to ensure that these qualifications were fit for purpose. These included Steiner, Champneys, Dermalogica, Benefit Cosmetics, Lee Stafford, INOAR and Graham Webb International.

These qualifications are aligned to the latest design principles specified by the DfE for high quality technical pathways that prepare young people for the world of work.

They have parity of esteem with GCE qualifications, and provide a credible route directly to employment and to higher education, with UCAS points attached.

Learners who have taken a City & Guilds Technical Qualification are highly focused on employment, already on the path to their career. For them, university is the next step that will allow them to expand their technical and professional skills in their chosen field.

About City & Guilds

City & Guilds is the recognised brand for skills-based learning and professional development. We work with employers and professional bodies worldwide to set and assess occupational standards. Our Technical Qualifications have been built to support progression from education to meaningful employment.

We hope the information provided supports your admissions process.
