To Diane Mitchell,

The Hairdressing Council was set up in 1964 by an Act of Parliament. This meant that hairdressers can apply to become State Registered in the same way as doctors, dentists or nurses can. The only difference is that it is completely voluntary to belong to the UK Register of qualified hairdressers.

The Hairdressing Council believes in the professionalism and passion of hairdressing and its campaign is to raise standards, making the industry self regulated. Ideally every hairdresser should be state registered which would eliminate those cowboys who practice hairdressing with no qualifications or experience whatsoever

We would like to provide our support to City & Guilds, as a Professional Body within the Hairdressing & Barbering industry, we feel the following qualification is suitable for a young person between the ages of 16-19 studying full time and will give that young person an advantage when going onto applying for a job or progressing onto an apprenticeship or further learning.

Title City & Guilds Level 3 Advanced Technical Diploma in Hairdressing (540)

This qualification has been developed with the needs of Industry and employers in mind, covering the skills and knowledge required needed to enter employment within the Hairdressing sector.

We believe these skills and knowledge would equip a learner with the necessary skills when looking for employment in the Hairdressing industry as a stylist, the Hairdressing Council feel that this Level 3 Advanced Technical Diploma in Hairdressing meets of the hairdressing industry and those employers who we represent .
