Qualification aim	Qualification levels and definition	Progression routes
These qualifications are to guide and assess development of knowledge, understanding and skills in leadership, management and/or advanced practice within health and social care and children and young people's services. These qualifications confirm competence in these areas. They can be used to meet qualification requirements for registration and regulation in some leadership and management roles.	These are level 5 diplomas. City & Guilds does not set formal entry requirements for these qualifications, but they are suitable for people with experience in the broad care sector and wishing to progress in leadership and management roles.	There are a number of qualifications, such as the diplomas in health and social care, or the qualifications in learning disabilities, that allow progression into these leadership and management qualifications. These qualifications are accepted as entry requirements to a number of HEI programmes. They can also provide continuing professional development (CPD).

	Key features	Key benefits
Structure	Each qualification includes a set of mandatory units and a group of further optional units some of which must be selected to gain the certificate.	The mandatory units ensure that learners meet the regulatory requirements of this qualification whilst the extensive range of optional units can also cater for a variety of individual CPD needs.
Assessment	The qualification is assessed by portfolios of evidence and by assignment. All skills are assessed in the workplace via observation of performance. Knowledge can be assessed in or out of the workplace.	Units which are 'knowledge only' are also optionally supported by City & Guilds devised assignments. This choice of assessments gives centres the convenient option to use ready-made assessments, yet gives the flexibility to customise delivery.
Support	Our support resources include: a free Qualification Handbook, online tutor and learner support via SmartScreen and our e-portfolio, Learning Assistant. Personal support is offered through our sector specialists and quality improvement events.	SmartScreen helps tutors save time planning and supports learners in order to drive greater quality and better success rates. Learning Assistant helps save time and money by increasing learner completion rates by up to 40% over paper delivery. Personal support is available from a team of Customer Relations personnel, dedicated Business Managers and the Portfolio Advisors, who can provide centre advice, guidance and support via national network events or onsite centre visits and through the use of internet technologies.
