

Skills for Working Life (4807)

FAQs

1. What is happening with the Skills for Working Life offer?

All of the current PSD units in the current SfWL (3807) are expiring this Summer. They are owned by another body (ASDAN) and they are not being extended. So we took the opportunity to re-develop the offer, based upon feedback from internal and external customers, and information about the current take-up on the present 19 qualifications. The new suite of Skills for Working Life qualifications (4807) will be launched on 1/9/2014. Registrations for the current suite of qualifications will close on 31/8/2014.

2. How will the new qualifications differ?

We have updated the new qualifications to:

- include a larger section of 'Preparing for Work' units. These will include the current PfW units, but also some selected from the new Employability (7546) offer
- be streamlined, with fewer barred combinations, making it easier to plan and develop your curriculum
- fewer individual QANs (now 6 compared to 19 before)
- be fully owned and controlled by City & Guilds – allowing uniform dates and no last minute changes to expiration dates

3. What size will the new qualifications be?

Award (6 credits), Certificate (22 credits), and Diploma (37 credits).

4. Will there be funding available?

Yes – all qualifications are fully approved for funding 16-18 and 19+

5. Where can we find a list of units?

In the Qualifications Handbook on the 4807 website.

7. What support resources are available for the qualifications?

Qualification Handbook.
