About City & Guilds
City & Guilds is the UK's leading provider of vocational qualifications, offering over 500 awards across a wide range of industries, and progressing from entry level to the highest levels of professional achievement. With over 8500 centres in 100 countries, City & Guilds is recognised by employers worldwide for providing qualifications that offer proof of the skills they need to get the job done.

City & Guilds Group
The City & Guilds Group includes City & Guilds, ILM (the Institute of Leadership & Management) which provides management qualifications, learning materials and membership services, NPTC which offers land-based qualifications and membership services, and HAB (the Hospitality Awarding Body). City & Guilds also manages the Engineering Council Examinations on behalf of the Engineering Council.

Equal opportunities
City & Guilds fully supports the principle of equal opportunities and we are committed to satisfying this principle in all our activities and published material. A copy of our equal opportunities policy statement is available on the City & Guilds website.

1 About this document

This document contains the information that centres need to offer the following Introductory Award in Training Skills 1106 (complex 01).

This document includes details and guidance on:
• centre requirements
• candidate entry requirements
• course design and delivery
• qualification standards and specifications
• assessment requirements
• evidence recording forms
• sample multiple choice paper/keys
• pro formas
• recommended reading list.

This document should be read in conjunction with the Centre Guide - Delivering international qualifications. This document contains other relevant pro formas required for the Introductory Award in Training Skills 1106 (complex 01).
The levels of City & Guilds qualifications

Progressive structure
Achieving maximum potential

All City & Guilds qualifications are part of an integrated progressive structure of awards arranged over seven levels, allowing people to progress from foundation to the highest level of professional competence. Senior awards, at levels 4 to 7, recognise outstanding achievement in industry, commerce and the public services. They offer a progressive vocational, rather than academic, route to professional qualifications. An indication of the different levels and their significance is given below.

2 About the qualifications

2.1 Aim of the qualification

City & Guilds has designed the Introductory Award in Training Skills 1106 (complex 01) for those delivering training or who are employed in post-16 education and training. The programme aims to reflect the international nature of the knowledge, skills and activities needed for different countries, cultures and industries.

This qualification is a short two day course for those who want to gain an introduction in training and assessing others. The term training also refers to presenting, facilitating, delivering, instructing and coaching.

It provides a broad function for progression to the Diploma in Training Skills which in turn provides progression to the Advanced Diploma in Teaching, Training and Assessing Learning (1106). It is aimed at enabling candidates to gain a basic introduction of how to train and assess others. In undertaking the course, candidates will:

• cover the basic theory of training and assessing
• perform practical activities, allowing them to demonstrate the skills required to train others
• partake in group discussions and a knowledge quiz
• carry out an assessed activity on the second day, on a topic of their choice, enabling them to train others.
2 About the qualifications

2.2 The structure of the qualification

The qualification will be awarded to successful candidates on completion of the two day course.

Candidates who wish to progress to the Diploma in Training Skills 1106 (complex 02) may do so at the discretion of the centre after checking that the candidate meets the requirements.

The Introductory Award in Training Skills 1106 (complex 01) consists of two days training, providing skills and practice to facilitate, present and/or train others in basic and routine activities, this will include:

- preparation
- delivery
- assessment.

Centres are provided with all course materials for delivery. Assessment takes place during the second day and results are confirmed at the end of the second day. Centres can claim certification using form S / Walled Garden.

Minimum Guided Learning Hours

The recommended delivery hours are twelve hours over the two days. These days can be consecutive or spread out within a four week period. Candidates will need to prepare for the assessment on the second day in their own time (approximately 2-3 hours study / preparation).

Centres must use all the documentation provided as listed below (available in the appendices)

- PowerPoint presentation (available from local/branch office on approval)
- Multiple choice quiz (available from local/branch office on approval)
- Outline of the programme (session plans)
- Training plan pro-forma
- City and Guilds activity sheets (1 to 4)
- Handouts (1 to 4)
- Observation checklist
- Professional discussion
- Evaluation form
- Record of course delivery.
2 About the qualifications
2.3 Relevant sources of information

Related publications
City & Guilds also provides the following documents specifically for these qualifications
• PowerPoint presentation and multiple choice quiz – available from local/branch office on approval.
• Course documents – available in the appendices of this document.

There are other City & Guilds documents which contain general information about City & Guilds qualifications:
• International directory of assessments and examinations. This document provides a detailed list of all international qualifications and an examination calendar
• International catalogue
• Preparing projects and portfolios for international qualifications. This document is a useful guide for centre staff and for candidates
• Guide to the assessment of practical skills in international vocational qualifications. This document offers advice for centre staff on planning and conducting practical assessments.
• SmartScreen (in due course).

For the latest updates on our publications and details of how to obtain them and other City & Guilds resources, please refer to the City & Guilds website.
3 Candidate entry and progression

Candidate entry requirements
There are no formal entry requirements for candidates undertaking these qualifications. However, candidates should have a reasonable level of language and literacy skills in English. The qualification is intended for pre-service and in-service candidates.

There is no Accreditation of Prior Learning or Experience (APL, APEL) for the qualification.

Age restrictions and legal considerations
The expected minimum age limit attached to candidates undertaking the qualification is 18, unless there is a requirement by local, regional or national law. Centres are responsible for ensuring compliance with all local, regional and national legislation which may affect delivery of the qualification.

Progression
The qualification provides a number of opportunities for progression both within the City & Guilds framework of qualifications and those available in the country that offers it. Progression to the Diploma in Training Skills 1106 (complex 02) or the Specialist Advanced Diploma qualification is possible providing candidates meet the entry requirements.

Diploma in Training Skills 1106 (complex 02)
This is a Diploma replacing and updating the existing International Certificate in Training Skills (1104).
It consists of four mandatory units:
• Identifying learners and needs
• Prepare instruction and coaching sessions
• Instruct and coach
• Assess, give feedback and review performance
Assessment is by practical observation and synoptic multiple choice test.

Teaching, Training and Assessing Learning 1106 (Level 3)
This qualification consists of two routes, the Advanced Diploma and the Specialist Advanced Diploma.

Advanced Diploma:
Identifying learner’s needs
Plan and prepare learning
Delivering learning
Assess outcomes
Evaluation

Specialist Advanced Diploma
Witness testimony
Coaching and mentoring
E-learning
Management of training
Assessing competence
Quality Assurance – Internal
Quality Assurance – External
4 Centre requirements

4.1 Obtaining centre and qualification approval

Only approved organisations can offer City & Guilds qualifications. Organisations approved by City & Guilds are referred to as centres.

Centres must meet a set of quality criteria including:

- provision of adequate resources, both physical and human
- clear management information systems
- effective assessment and quality assurance procedures including candidate support and reliable recording systems.

An organisation that has not previously offered City & Guilds qualifications must apply for approval to become a centre. This is known as the centre approval process (CAP). Centres also need approval to offer a specific qualification. This is known as the qualification approval process (QAP). In order to offer these qualifications, organisations which are not already City & Guilds centres must apply for centre and qualification approval at the same time. Existing City & Guilds centres will only need to apply for qualification approval for these particular qualifications.

Existing 1104 and 1106 centres will need to complete the Qualification Approval Process (QAP).

Full details of the procedures and forms for applying for centre and qualification approval are given in the Centre guide - Delivering international qualifications, which is available from International branch offices, the City & Guilds website or the Customer Relations team in our London office.

Note: For centres in the UK, please refer to Providing City & Guilds Qualifications – A Guide to Centre and Qualification (scheme) Approval, which is available on the City & Guilds Centre toolkit, or downloadable from the City & Guilds website. This could apply to those working in armed forces or international companies.

International branch offices will support new centres through the approval process. They will appoint an external verifier. They will also provide details of fees applicable for approvals. The branch office will be the point of contact for all enquiries for these qualifications and will be responsible for monitoring the delivery and assessments through reports submitted by external verifiers.

Assessments must not be undertaken until qualification approval has been obtained and candidates have been registered.

City & Guilds reserves the right to withdraw qualification or centre approval for reasons of debt, malpractice or non-compliance with City & Guilds’ policies, regulations, requirements, procedures and guidelines, or for any reason that may be detrimental to the maintenance of authentic, reliable and valid qualifications or that may prejudice the name of City & Guilds. Further details of the reasons for suspension and withdrawal of approval, procedures and timescales, are contained in Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications.
3 Candidate entry and progression

4.2 Pre – Course information

Centres should inform candidates in advance that they will be required to attend both days of the course and that assessment will take place during the second day. They will need to deliver a ten minute training session to their peer group or a peer group member (eg one to one coaching) and take a multiple choice quiz. They will need to have a topic for their training session and be prepared to read handouts in their own time. Candidates need to be informed of refreshment/meal arrangements and timings.

Candidates should arrive around 9.15 for a prompt 9.30 start. Sessions should conclude at 4.30 and there is a 15 minute break during the morning, an hour’s lunch break and a 15 minute break in the afternoon. Timings for breaks can be adjusted to suit the group.

The maximum recommended number of candidates in the group is ten, minimum is four. This is to enable all the activities to be completed within the time.

Centres must ensure that they have obtained the PowerPoint presentation and Multiple choice quiz documentation prior to delivery.
Centre staff must familiarise themselves with all content and use different versions of the Multiple Choice quiz for different cohorts.
3 Candidate entry and progression

4.3 Resource requirements

Physical resources
Centres must have an appropriate training room with IT facilities for the delivery of the course and ensure that they have adequate experienced / qualified staff.

City & Guilds provides the PowerPoint presentation, session plans, handouts, activities and relevant pro-formas for delivering the course. Centre staff should read the presentation beforehand and add centre details at the points stated. The content of the slides should not be amended in any way. This allows a standardised approach to the course delivery by all City & Guilds centres.

Where centres do not have PowerPoint facilities, it is acceptable for them to produce the presentation on overhead transparencies.

Centres will need the following resources:

Training room with:
• PowerPoint equipment and projector/screen or OHP facilities
• flip chart paper, board and marker pens
• pens/paper
• copies of the presentation, handouts and activities specified in the session plans
• name cards/badges.

A breakout room would be useful when delivering the programme, for group activities and feedback from assessments.

Tutors/assessor and verifier requirements
Tutor/assessors/IV should be occupationally competent /experienced at a level above that which they will be delivering / assessing. Staff should be technically competent and experienced practitioners in the specific context of teacher or trainer training.

Recommended reading – see Appendix 10

Continuing professional development (CPD)
Centres are expected to support their staff in ensuring that their knowledge of the units and of best practice in delivery, mentoring, assessment and verification remains current, and takes account of any national or legislative developments.
Centre staff are encouraged to take unit 110 Assessing Competence or unit 111 Quality Assurance - Internal from the 1106 in Teaching, Training and Assessing Learning Level 3 qualification.
3 Candidate entry and progression

4.4 Registration and certification

Full details of City & Guilds’ administrative procedures for these qualifications are provided in the International directory of examinations and assessments, and are provided online to City & Guilds registered centres via the Walled Garden. This information includes details on:

- registration procedures
- enrolment numbers
- entry for examinations
- conduct of examinations
- claiming certification.

Centres should be aware of the time constraints regarding the registration and certification periods for the qualifications, as specified in the City & Guilds International directory of examinations and assessments. Centres should follow all guidance carefully, particularly noting that registration and certification end dates for the qualifications are subject to change.

Centres may obtain information about fees for these qualifications from local/branch offices.

Due to the short duration of this course centres must register candidates prior to, or on the first day of training.
3 Candidate entry and progression
4.5 Quality assurance

Internal quality assurance
Approved centres must have effective quality assurance systems to ensure optimum delivery and assessment of qualifications. Full information is provided in the Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications.

Quality assurance includes initial centre approval, qualification approval and the centre’s own internal procedures for monitoring quality. Centres are responsible for internal quality assurance, and City & Guilds is responsible for external quality assurance.

International standards and rigorous quality assurance are maintained by the use of:
- City & Guilds activities, delivered and assessed by the centre according to externally set evidence requirements
- internal (centre) quality assurance
- City & Guilds external verification.

To meet the quality assurance criteria for these qualifications, the centre must ensure that the following internal roles are undertaken:
- Technical support
- Tutor/Assessor
- Internal Verifier Co-ordinator (for larger centres)
- Internal Verifier
- Examinations Secretary

Full details and guidance on the internal and external quality assurance requirements and procedures, are provided in Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications together with full details of the tasks, activities and responsibilities of quality assurance staff.

In order to fully support candidates, centres are required to retain original copies of candidates’ assessment and internal verification records for three years after certification.

The following is a summary of the key roles involved in the successful implementation and assessment of the scheme. (Please refer to the Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications for further information).

Internal Verifiers
The role of the Internal Verifier (IV) is to ensure that:
- they liaise with City & Guilds personnel
- there are adequate resources, both staff and materials
- the work of all personnel contributing to the delivery and assessment of the programme is sampled by a range of methods which should include sampling the observation checklist, candidate training plans and multiple choice quiz responses
- records of all sampling activities are monitored and maintained
- where several members of staff are involved in the delivery/assessment of the qualification, that there is a consistent interpretation of the requirements through standardisation activities and that these are documented
• all staff carrying out delivery and assessment are familiar with and understand the qualification requirements
• an appropriate referral policy is in place
• an appropriate appeals procedure is in place
• candidate evidence is clearly organised and accessible to the Internal and External verifier
• relevant records and pro formas are completed, maintained and retained for the purposes of Internal and External Verification along with the record of course delivery form.

The role of the Tutor/Assessor is to:
• plan, manage, deliver and assess the qualification using the City and Guilds materials provided
• ensure availability of technical support for ICT equipment
• ensure that each candidate is aware of the assessment requirements throughout their programme of learning
• provide guidance and support to candidates on the assessment and evidence requirements for the qualification
• ensure that the assessment and evidence requirements have been met by the candidate
• observe candidates’ delivered sessions
• facilitate the multiple choice quiz and mark candidate responses
• complete relevant records and pro formas.

All staff should participate in appropriate Continuous Professional Development (CPD), to keep up to date with the delivery of the qualification and their role.
Centre staff are encouraged to take the recognised qualification for Assessors and Internal Verifiers from the 1106 Teaching, Training and Assessing Learning Level 3 (Specialist Advanced Diploma Route)

External quality assurance
External verifiers are appointed by City & Guilds to approve centres, and to monitor the assessment and internal quality assurance carried out by centres. External verification is carried out to ensure that assessment is fair, valid, consistent and reliable, and that there is good assessment practice in centres to enable candidates to meet the requirements of the qualification.

To carry out their quality assurance role, External Verifiers must have appropriate occupational and verification knowledge and expertise for the qualifications for which they verify. City & Guilds External Verifiers attend training and development sessions designed to keep them up-to-date, to facilitate standardisation between verifiers and to share good practice. External verifiers are encouraged to take the Specialist Advanced Diploma (1106) Unit 112 Quality assurance – external. Please contact your branch office for further details.

External verifiers:
The role of the external verifier is to:
• make approval visits/recommendations (where necessary) to confirm that centres can satisfy the approval criteria
• ensure that Internal Verifiers are undertaking their duties satisfactorily
• monitor internal quality assurance systems and records
• sample observation reports and multiple choice quiz responses
• check claims for certification to ensure they are authentic, valid and supported by auditable records
• act as a source of advice and support to centres, including help with interpretation of standards
• promote best practice
• provide prompt, accurate and constructive feedback to all relevant parties on the operation of centres’ assessment systems
• confirm that centres have implemented any corrective actions required
• report back to City & Guilds’ head office or the relevant branch office
• maintain records of centre visits and make these available for Internal and External Verification purposes.

External quality assurance for the qualifications will be provided by the usual City & Guilds external verification process and reported on using relevant documentation to provide a risk analysis of individual centre assessment and verification practice.

External Verifiers must read the qualification guidance for External Verifiers available from your local branch office.
5 Course design and delivery

Recommended delivery strategies
Centre staff should familiarise themselves with the structure, content and assessment requirements of the qualification which is provided in the detailed materials in this handbook.

The recommended delivery time is twelve hours, over two days as detailed in the minimum guided learning hours section.

Qualification materials
City and Guilds have produced course materials to assist with the delivery and assessment of the qualification. The PowerPoint presentation and the multiple choice quiz and keys are available from your local/branch office upon approval. All other documentation is in the appendices of this handbook.

Guidance for delivery
Session plan timings are approximate. Flexibility and responsiveness to individual and group needs is required throughout the delivery. The course can be delivered over two consecutive days or two days to suit the centre and candidates, for example two Mondays. However, a gap of more than three weeks between the two days is not recommended as knowledge may not be retained by candidates.

It is acceptable for one person to present and assess the course; however, centres may find two presenters useful. Recommended minimum group size is four, maximum ten.

Presenters should be experienced practitioners in the specific context of teacher or trainer training. It is expected they have a thorough knowledge of the contents of the 1106 (complex 01) programme. Presenters should be able to elaborate on the content and relate it to their candidates with practical experiences.

Candidates should be given a copy of the PowerPoint presentation in paper format.

There are regular recap slides throughout the presentation to reinforce learning which may need further explanation and clarification.

Centres must keep all flip chart presentations produced by the candidates; these will be required again on day two. The emphasis of the course is on practical skills and time should not be taken up with too many theoretical discussions.

Prior to lunch on day one, the presenter should deliver a short training session, to demonstrate how training and assessment takes place. This need only last a couple of minutes. Complete the aim and objectives on the PowerPoint slide beforehand. Use a topic that is relevant to everyone, for example how to re-fill a stapler or set an alarm clock. Make sure the required resources are available and working. It can be to the whole group or demonstrated on a one-one basis in front of the group. The aim should be stated, the topic demonstrated, learning assessed and feedback given.

Candidates will be expected to use the ‘training plan’ pro forma for their delivery on the second day, provided in the appendices.
Initial assessment and induction
Centres will need to satisfy themselves that candidates are able to achieve prior to the start of their programme. Candidates should have a reasonable level of English language and literacy skills.

Evaluation
Each candidate should complete the ‘evaluation form’ provided in the appendices at the end of day two. These should aid completion of the ‘record of course delivery form’ by centres.

Records
Centres should complete the ‘record of course delivery’ form after each course delivered provided in the appendices. These should be retained for external verification.

Observation checklists, candidate training plans, multiple choice quiz responses/cover sheets, candidate evaluations, and professional discussion records must be retained with the ‘record of course delivery’ form for external verification purposes.

All records are available in the Appendices.

Centres should also keep their own attendance record for each delivery. All records must be maintained for External Verification purposes.

Relationship to other qualifications
City & Guilds recommends centres address the wider curriculum, where appropriate, when delivering the course. Areas that centres should consider are:
- language skills
- literacy skills
- professional values and practice
- relevant cultural, social, local, moral and spiritual issues

Data protection and confidentiality
Centres offering these qualifications may need to provide City & Guilds with personal data for staff and candidates. Centres will need to abide by the legal requirements of the country that they operate in. Centres and staff will be expected to maintain the confidentiality required by the laws and policies of national governments and the centres that offer the qualifications.

Health and safety
The requirement to follow safe working practices is an integral part of all City & Guilds qualifications and assessments, and it is the responsibility of centres to ensure that all relevant health and safety requirements are in place before candidates commence the programme.

Should a candidate fail to follow health and safety practice and procedures during an assessment, the assessment must be stopped. The candidate should be informed that they have not reached the standard required to successfully pass the assessment and told the reason why. Candidates may retake the assessment at a later date, at the discretion of the centre. In case of any doubt, guidance should be sought from the external verifier.

Equal opportunities
It is a requirement of centre approval that centres have an equal opportunities policy (see Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications).

The regulatory authorities require City & Guilds to monitor centres to ensure that equal opportunity policies are being followed.
The City & Guilds equal opportunities policy is set out on the City & Guilds website, in Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications, in the International directory of examinations and assessments, and is also available from the City & Guilds Customer Relations department.

Access to assessment
City & Guilds’ guidance and regulations on access to assessment are designed to facilitate access for assessments and qualifications for candidates who are eligible for adjustments to assessment arrangements. Access arrangements are designed to allow attainment to be demonstrated. For further information, please see Access to assessment and qualifications, available on the City & Guilds website, and in Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications.

Results and certification
All candidates for City & Guilds qualifications receive a Notification of Candidates Results giving details of their performance.

The administrative arrangements for registering and certificating candidates are clearly outlined in the Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications. Any enquiries about results and certification must be conducted through the candidate’s centre.

Further information about the issue of results and certification for centres is available online at www.cityandguilds.com or by contacting the City & Guilds Operations Support Service enquiries team (contact details are available in the appendices of Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications).

Appeals
Centres must have their own, auditable, appeals procedure that must be explained to candidates during their induction. Appeals must be fully documented by the quality assurance co-ordinator and made available to the external verifier or City & Guilds.

Further information on appeals is given in Centre guide – Delivering international qualifications. There is also information on appeals for centres and learners on the City & Guilds website or available from the Customer Relations department.
6 Assessment

6.1 Summary of assessment requirements

The course is assessed by each candidate delivering a ten minute training session and taking a multiple choice quiz during the second day.

Candidate training session

The observation checklist must be completed for each candidate’s training session, candidates should be given a blank copy of this in advance. Candidates must provide a completed training plan prior to their delivery, which must include a clear aim and have a beginning, middle and end. Timing should be realistic, with examples of resources, activities and assessment to be used (if applicable).

For this qualification, candidates will be required to complete the following assessments:
- demonstrating practical training skills
- completing a multiple choice quiz to test knowledge.

Grading and marking

Grading of activities for this qualification is pass, refer or fail. If candidates are referred, centres may carry out a professional discussion to confirm whether the candidate should pass or fail in either the practical aspect or the multiple choice quiz.

If candidates fail the practical aspect, they will need to re-take the full course again in the future. If candidates fail the multiple choice quiz after professional discussion they may retake a different version at the discretion of the centre within a four week period or re-take the full course again in the future.

Breakdown of grading for the observation

PASS – all aspects must be YES
REFER – if any aspect is NO, a professional discussion can take place with the candidate at the feedback stage, to ascertain if they have the required skills and knowledge for a pass – Professional Discussion Form should be used for this purpose.
FAIL – if Professional Discussion does not clearly reflect the required skills and knowledge for a pass. Candidate will need to re-take the full course again in the future; their registration with City & Guilds is live for three years.

Centres must retain the observation forms for Internal and External Verification purposes, along with each candidate’s training plan. The completed form is not to be given out to candidates. Candidates may make notes based on feedback on the reverse of their copy of their training plan.

Multi choice quiz

Different versions of the quiz with answer keys are available from your local/branch office upon approval.

The intention of the quiz is to ensure that candidates have absorbed the knowledge from the course. Pass mark is 8 or above, professional discussion can be used (if a candidate achieves 6 or 7) to ensure the candidate has the required knowledge. Details of any professional discussion should be noted on the relevant form and records maintained. Fail is 0-5.
There are 15 questions to be completed within 30 minutes. There should be a clock in the room, spare black/blue pens, and all flip chart notes/posters should be removed or covered up. Remind candidates of the time five minutes prior to the end of the quiz.

The quiz is not intended to be a formal exam, use professional judgment on the rules of conduct while the quiz is taking place, and agree these with the candidates beforehand (example ‘no talking’ should be a rule).

There are several versions of the multiple choice papers. Centres must rotate these versions with different cohorts.

Issue the quiz papers and ask candidates to complete the relevant part of the cover sheet, collect all papers at the end. All candidates are to stay in the room until completed. If candidates all finish early, the break can be taken earlier.

Candidates should answer at least 8 out of 15 questions correctly. Time is allocated during the afternoon session for the marking of the papers. If they achieve 6 or 7 centres must use professional discussion to check understanding of the knowledge covered. Five or below is a fail, candidates may re-take another version of the quiz within four weeks at the discretion of the centre.

However, if a candidate passes the quiz but fails the training session, they will need to attend another course in the future.

After all the training sessions have taken place on the second day, the group will carry out a self managed activity (details in the PowerPoint) to give time for tutors to mark the quiz. Centres must retain all quiz responses and cover sheets for internal and external verification.

Giving feedback of results

Whilst the candidates are working through Activity 4 on day two, feedback can be given on a one-one basis.

Use this opportunity to have a professional discussion to fill gaps in the candidate's knowledge, where necessary, regarding their training session or the multi choice quiz responses.

Candidates can make notes regarding feedback on the pro-forma on the reverse copy of their training plan.

Why am I here?
Activity 2 (10 minutes)

What are the characteristics of a good trainer?
One person from the group to present their findings – either reading from this sheet or using a flip chart.

In your group, discuss and list your responses
Activity 3 (45 minutes) 3 pages

Preparing your session
Think about the 10 minute training session you will deliver

Who are your learners?
Do they have any special requirements? How can you plan to take this into account?

What are you going to deliver?
What is your aim? Can you break this down into SMART objectives?

When will the session take place?
Does the timing pose any problems? How can you plan to take this into account?
Where will the session take place?
Does this pose any problems for your delivery or use of equipment? How will you set up the environment?

Why are you delivering this topic?
Can you achieve your aim? Do you have to prepare anything in advance eg resources, activities, informal assessment?

How will you deliver your session?
What methods and / or activities will you use?
Now think about the session that you are planning, and consider it in terms of its overall structure and of the following three stages within it:

Introduction – the beginning
Indicate how you will begin the session. Write down the reasons for your choice:

Development phase – the middle
Write down your plans for the development phase of your session. How will you do this, what methods of delivery and resources will you use? Will you use informal assessment? If so, how will you do this?

Concluding the session – the end
How will you summarise your session and relate this to your aim? How will you close your session?

Now draft your training session using the training plan pro-forma (Appendix 2)
Activity 4 (25 minutes)

Appendix 4  Handouts

Handout 1 - (2 page document)
Identify learners
The starting point for planning your training is usually based upon the needs of your organisation, for example to ensure all staff are adequately trained in particular areas. If you are to deliver staff training, you will need to know what you are to deliver; you may write the programme yourself or be given relevant information. Certificates of attendance may be given by your organisation which staff can keep as evidence of their continual professional development.

You will need to identify the learning needs, styles, aspirations and potential of your learners. Getting the level right, and the amount of training and assessment you will carry out, will only come by experience and you may need to ask others for help and advice. Identifying your learner/s needs can take place prior to them commencing training, for example you may need to ensure there are disabled facilities or any special requirements such as hearing, sight, dyslexia, health etc. There are lots of useful learning styles’ tests available on the internet which can help ascertain if your learners are visual, aural or kinaesthetic learners. Knowing what your learners expect from their training with you will help you adapt your delivery.

Plan training
The term training also refers to presenting, facilitating, delivering, instructing and coaching. Well before your session, consider a clear aim of what you want to achieve, you can then identify your objectives and how you will achieve these with your learners.

You will also need to prepare any handouts, activities and assessment materials. It’s also useful to practice your timings in advance.

You need some form of written record of what you intend to achieve, this is known as a training plan and it should have a logical structure. It should have a beginning, a middle and an end.

Producing a training plan gives you confidence and acts as a reminder, a checklist and prompt as you deliver your training session.

When preparing a training plan the following should be considered:

- Timing
- Delivery of content
- Resources & activities
- Assessment
- Evaluation

You may find you have prepared too much, or not enough, this will come by experience and you should be prepared to deal with this professionally.
Designing resources

You may need to prepare resources such as handouts etc or you may be provided with these. Make sure your resources look professional. If you are using any equipment ensure this is available and working. If you are preparing a computerised presentation, don't put too much information on each slide, or use too many slides. Check all resources for spelling, grammar and punctuation, ensure you have enough handouts and resources for all your learners.

Deliver training

Your delivery should have a beginning, middle and end.

The beginning or introduction involves:
- introducing yourself
- checking if your learners have done anything similar previously
- outlining the structure of the training
- linking with previous sessions (if relevant)
- identifying the relevance of this particular session – the aim.

The middle section is a logical sequence of delivery of content and activities appropriate to the objectives. This is often referred to as the main content or development stage.

The end, or summary/conclusion, will include:
- questions or activities to assess if learning has been achieved
- feedback
- a summary or re-cap of the main points
- any follow up activities
- links to future sessions (if relevant).

If you have to deliver this session again at a later stage you don't have to start the whole planning procedure again, but can use your training plan as your starting point and amend it accordingly.

Include variety within your session to appeal to the senses of those who are visual, aural or kinaesthetic learners. Don't be afraid of repeating points, your learners will be hearing new things and repetition will help them learn. Also, summarise key aspects regularly, allow time for questions and thank learners for their involvement.

You may deliver one—one training, this is sometimes called coaching or instructing. Whether you deliver to a group or an individual, the same principles of the training cycle will apply:
- identify needs
- plan training
- deliver training
- assess learning
- evaluation
Handout 2 – Aims and objectives

These are terms used to express what you want your learners to achieve and how you will go about this. The aim is the what and the objective is the how.

Example aim

To provide learners with the opportunity to use a computer.

Example objectives

Learners will:

- switch on a computer and use a keyboard and mouse
- use the word processor program to produce a document
- save and print the document.

The aim is the whole topic; the objective is the breakdown of that topic and what you want your learners to achieve. Usually, the objective can be assessed to check your learners’ learning.

Objectives should be SMART:

- Specific – are they clearly defined?
- Measurable – can they be met?
- Achievable – are they possible?
- Realistic – do they relate to the aim?
- Time bound – can they be met in the time?

Writing SMART objectives is a skill and will take practice. The more time you spend planning what you want your learners to know and do, the more effective your delivery and their learning will be.

Some useful words for objectives are:

- construct
- create
- define
- demonstrate
- describe
- design
- discuss
- explain
- identify
- illustrate
- justify
- list
- make
- name
- perform
- practice
- present
- produce
- show
- state
- use
- write

Always set time limits for the objectives you want your learners to achieve.
Assessment is a way of finding out if learning has taken place. It enables you to ascertain if your learners have gained the required skills and knowledge. Depending upon the topic you are delivering, you may need to devise ways of assessing your learners to check their progress.

Assessment can be formative – this means it is ongoing for example a project or assignment, or summative – at the end of the programme for example a test. Formal assessment includes exams, multiple choice tests, assignments, observation etc. Informal assessment includes open questions, gapped handouts, group discussions, activities etc.

You could observe your learners carrying out a practical task, and/or ask questions to check their knowledge.

Questions can be open or closed. Open questions allow you to check your learners’ knowledge eg ‘Why do you save documents on a computer?’ Closed questions only give a yes/no response and don’t tell you what has been learnt, eg ‘Do you save your documents?’ You will need to decide what you are going to ask based upon what you are training. Poor answers are often the result of poor questions. Be careful with the use of jargon, just because you understand it doesn't mean your learners will.

If you are asking questions verbally to a group, ensure you include them all. Don’t just let the keen ones answer first as this gives the ones who don't know the answers the chance to stay quiet.

Pose a question, pause for a second making eye contact with everyone and then if appropriate pounce on the name of someone to answer. This way, everyone is thinking about the answer as soon as you have posed the question, and will be ready to speak if their name is asked.

When asking questions, only use one question in a sentence, more than one may confuse. Try not to end a session with ‘do you have any questions?’ often only those that are keen or confident will ask, and this doesn’t tell you what they have learnt. Try not to use questions such as ‘does that make sense?’ or ‘do you understand?’, as your learner will often say yes as they feel that’s what you expect to hear. It doesn’t tell you whether they have learnt or not.

Whichever way you decide to assess your learners, you need to give feedback. Feedback should be more thorough than just a comment, it shouldn’t be your opinion, but facts that relate to success or otherwise.

When giving feedback it can really help your learners to hear something positive first about what they have done well, followed by what they need to improve, and then end on a positive note or question to keep them motivated. This is known as the praise sandwich. Constructive feedback doesn’t just mean positive feedback. Negative feedback, if given skillfully can be very important and useful. Be specific about what could be improved and always state why.
Handout 4 - Evaluation

Evaluation is about your learners giving you feedback regarding your training. It’s also about you evaluating yourself. It is always best to evaluate yourself at the end of the session, think what you did well, what you might change and consider any feedback from the learners.

Whether you deliver one-one or to a group, it is important to evaluate the learning process. This will help you realise how effective you were and what you could improve in the future. It will also help you identify any problem areas enabling you to do things differently next time.

There must be a purpose for evaluation. What do you want to know and why?

You could obtain feedback from your learners in the form of a questionnaire, informal questions or a group discussion.

Always build in time to your session for this to take place. If you issue a questionnaire, your learners may take this away and forget to return it.

When devising questions, you could use closed questions such as: Were the delivery methods suitable? YES/NO. Or open questions such as: How did you find the delivery methods? There are many ways of writing questions with different types of responses. For example a closed question could be followed by a response scale of 1-5 (one being no or low, five being yes or high) or smiley faces ☺☺☺ for learners to circle depending upon their feelings.

If you are delivering a longer course, it is useful to obtain feedback part way through the course, as well as at the end. This will enable you to make any necessary changes. Never assume everything is going well just because you think it is. You need feedback from your learners to confirm they are enjoying their learning experience with you.

When you receive your feedback, make sure you do something with it, don't just file it away.

When delivering sessions to others, you are also learning about yourself. For example, how you react to different situations or learners, how patient you are and what skills you may need to develop. You may also decide you need further training to improve your own knowledge and skills. You may have heard of the saying you learn by your mistakes. You may make mistakes, most people do, however, your learners may not notice these. Although you will notice, you can ensure you don't make the same mistakes again in the future.

After delivering a training session, complete the reverse side of your training plan to evaluate yourself.

Pass – all aspects must be YES
Refer – if any aspect is NO, a professional discussion can take place with the candidate at the feedback stage, to ascertain if they have the required skills and knowledge for a pass – note issues discussed on this form and the professional discussion form.
Fail – if professional discussion does not clearly reflect the required skills and knowledge for a pass. Candidate will need to re-take the full course again in the future; their registration with City & Guilds is live for three years.
