Pilot of digital credentials for our light vehicle technician new apprenticeship (England)

Digital credentials offer an exciting new way to evidence and showcase learners' skills, set up clear milestones of achievement and drive standardisation and transparency across cohorts of learners.

We are piloting digital credentials for the new light vehicle technician apprenticeship standard and want colleges, training providers, employers and apprentices to tell us what you think.

This is a great opportunity to try out a system for free that is growing in popularity and help shape its application in apprenticeships.
